The leaves and tops are the medicinal parts, and it is best used in form of a hot tea or syrup. Medical properties and uses. --This remedy is very mild in its action, yet quite certain. It makes a very valuable cough syrup, quiets nervous excitation, and therefore induces sleep. For bad colds the hot tea should be drunk on going to bed. Petroselinum Sativum. Parsley. This is a garden plant, and the tops are used in cooking and flavoring different dishes, especially soups and dressing. The root is a splendid cooling diuretic, and should be given in all kidney troubles in low forms of fever. I have known it to succeed when more noted remedies failed. The only way I give it is in the form of a tea made from the green root, to be drunk freely. Podophyllin. May Apple. This plant grows in little armies, and bears a little yellow apple, called a May apple. The root has a powerful medical property called podophyllin. It was discovered by John King, M. D. , Professor of Obstetrics in the Cincinnati Eclectic Medical Institute, and since its discovery it has become a noted remedy all over the medical world. Medical properties and uses. --This is a powerful hydrogogue cathartic, in large doses producing copious watery discharges from the bowels. It is a fine remedy when properly given, for torpid liver, or,...
